Fintech and FASSTA complete supported transition of QuickBooks Online integration

Fintech and FASSTA have completed a supported technology transition, bringing Fintech's QuickBooks Online invoice automation in-house.

FASSTA developed and supported the original QuickBooks integration for Fintech's customers over several years. When Fintech chose to build and implement a replacement solution using Fintech technology, the two companies established a commercial arrangement to manage the transition. FASSTA provided platform knowledge, technical guidance, and customer support to help ensure a seamless migration.

"We appreciated the team's professionalism, collaborative approach, and commitment to working alongside us as our requirements evolved. Their expertise and support played an important role in helping us successfully bring the capability in-house and complete the transition with minimal disruption to our customers."

Tad Phelps, Chief Executive Officer at Fintech.

"This transition reflects FASSTA's flexible partner model. Alongside software development, FASSTA works with enterprise partners, distributors, and wholesalers to meet their long-term needs, including helping them transition to their own technology platforms."

Tony Brockhurst, Managing Director at FASSTA
